NEWS WORTH SHARING.

A flustered Mayor Rob Ford talks to media at city hall on Thursday, after Police Chief Bill Blair confirmed the force has a video that news reports alleged appears to show him smoking crack cocaine. Ford maintains he has no reason to step down. Coverage, pages 2, 6, 8 and 10. FRANK GUNN/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Welcome to Floored Nation

Oh, it's real. Police drop bombshell with court documents, but will we see the video?

JESSICA SMITH
jessica.smith@metronews.ca

Alessandro "Sandro" Lisi is heading to court Friday morning on an extortion charge that may give the public its best shot at seeing the infamous Rob Ford "crack video."

Toronto Police Chief Bill Blair announced Thursday that the force recovered the video from a hard drive seized in the Project Traveller guns-and-drugs investigation on June 13.

He said the mayor does appear in the video and that it is "consistent" with media reports. The video allegedly shows the mayor "obviously impaired, smoking what appears to be crack cocaine and making homophobic and racist slurs," reports said.

The police technical experts recovered the video after it had been deleted from a hard drive and gave it to investigators on Oct. 29. As a result, Ford's friend and occasional driver Lisi was charged with extortion. Police accuse him of "extortive efforts to retrieve a recording" since April.

Blair said the video will be submitted to the court as evidence, making it part of the public record. The media could then request copies. However, if Lisi pleads guilty before evidence is introduced, the video may not be made public.

Blair also says there is more than one video.

"There were several video files relevant to this investigation, and two videos that are particularly relevant," said Blair. "As a citizen of Toronto, I'm disappointed. I know this is a traumatic issue for the city and for the reputation of this city."

Blair's announcement came shortly after the court released partially redacted documents pertaining to Lisi's arrest for drug trafficking on Oct. 1.

The documents show that police tailed Ford and that he called and met with Lisi often. Police observed Lisi passing plastic bags and envelopes to Ford

Ford said little on the new revelations, other than he has "no reason to resign."

Despite revelations, questions remain about embattled mayor

Crack-video scandal. T.O. police chief and high-profile lawyers weigh in on Ford's next step, what constitutes evidence

jessica.smith@metronews.ca

Police Chief Bill Blair answered one big Rob Ford question Thursday when he said police had recovered the "crack video" described in the media — and in doing so sparked many more.

Will Ford remain mayor?

Ford says he "has no reason to resign," and there are few options that would see him forced from office.

According to the Ministry of Municipal Affairs and Housing, a councillor or mayor's seat would become vacant if they were convicted of a criminal offence and was in prison because of the sentence.

However, Ford has not been charged with a crime and even if he is, he would not be ousted from office until a point where he was convicted and serving jail time.

If police do indeed have a video of Ford smoking crack, why haven't they laid a drug charge?

Chief Blair said the video, in itself, does not give police reasonable grounds to charge the mayor with a crime, but neither he nor the police service communications department would elaborate on why.

Quoted

"If they can't prove that it is crack cocaine, then they can't prove the offence."

Nathan Gorham, lawyer specializing in drugs cases

Clayton Ruby, a well-known criminal lawyer who led a legal challenge that ultimately failed to see Ford ousted from office, said Ford should have been charged.

"It's certainly grounds for an arrest," said Ruby. "He looks stoned, from all the accounts, and he's getting it from a crack pipe."

Ruby said the video would be considered a piece of circumstantial evidence, but alleged the police didn't go far enough to gather evidence against Ford.

Nathan Gorham, a defence lawyer who specializes in drugs cases and has been involved in the Project Traveller case, said video evidence isn't usually simple for police.

"If they can't prove that it is crack cocaine, then they can't prove the offence," he said, adding he's never seen a case succeed without a certificate of analysis showing what the substance in question actually was, or another way of proving it.

What was in the shopping bags and envelopes police observed alleged drug dealer Sandro Lisi pass to Ford?

The court documents don't indicate exactly what Lisi passed Ford. However, police did build a case alleging Lisi is a drug dealer, which included sending in an undercover officer to arrange a marijuana buy from the dry cleaners, where it was alleged Lisi was the supplier.

Mayor Rob Ford asks the media to get off his property as he leaves his home in Toronto on Thursday.
NATHAN DENETTE/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ruby said the activity reported in the court documents — police observing a suspected drug dealer pass packages to another person — are a regular part of drug investigations, but should have been followed up by a search of the suspected client.

There is no indication that Ford was ever stopped and searched. Ruby said "it's inexplicable" that he wasn't. "Anyone else would be arrested, the evidence would have been seized and a charge would now be laid."

"They let the information just slip through their hands," he said.

Gorham disagreed with this as well, saying the legal grounds police have to stop and search a person are a hotly debated legal issue and witnessing a suspected drug dealer pass a package to someone is not necessarily enough, on face value, to search that person.

"It depends on the police knowledge, the location, the background of the people, the time of day, what exactly the police observed," he said.

Blair did not comment on Ruby's allegations, but his spokesman, Mark Pugash, told The Canadian Press Ruby's remarks were a "desperate and transparent attempt" to latch onto a news story in which he had no involvement.

Cheney as bullish as ever in Toronto

Economic forum. Much-maligned former U.S. VP says 'there is no reason in the world' Keystone XL pipeline shouldn't be built

Former U.S. vice-president Dick Cheney was firing on all cylinders as he spoke in Toronto on Thursday, throwing his support behind the Keystone XL pipeline, Tea Party Republicans and stepping up the fight against al-Qaida.

But he also joked not to worry — the 72-year-old, who has had six heart attacks, said he won't be "running against anybody" in the 2016 U.S. presidential election.

"It's very much in our interest to build the Keystone pipeline," Cheney said of the controversial plan to ship oil from Canada to the U.S. Cheney was addressing a largely Bay Street crowd at the International Economic Forum of the Americas, a global business conference at the Metro Convention Centre.

Protesters demonstrate across the street from the Metro Convention Centre, where former U.S. vice-president Dick Cheney was inside addressing the International Economic Forum of the Americas. TANYA TALAGA/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

U.S. President Barack Obama's unwillingness to follow through on Keystone is "totally foolish policy," Cheney said, as the audience clapped. "There is no reason in the world we shouldn't build that pipeline."

Outside the forum, protesters called Cheney a war criminal over his role in the invasion of Iraq. "It is a shame he is here," said demonstrator James Campbell. "Canada is aiding and abetting all of Dick Cheney's crimes by letting him speak here."

The 46th U.S. vice-president started his speech on the revolution of energy policies that have "come about in spite of government," thanks to the private sector using new technologies such as fracking or extracting natural gas from shale.

"The problem at present is the current administration spends a lot of time trying to cap any use of fossil fuels," he said. "The war on coal is what we call it."

"I'm going to put back on my Darth Vader mask that I used to be accused of wearing ... because of my concern about terrorism and the possible use of weapons of mass destruction by terrorists.... I still believe it is a major threat today and, if anything, it is worse today than it was on 9-11.

Former U.S. vice-president Dick Cheney

Terror talk

Al-Qaida and "their fellow travellers" have reasserted or re-energized, Cheney warned. He pointed to increased violence in Iraq and terror threats in North Africa.

- Concerning Afghanistan, the U.S. supported fighters in the 1980s, but that stopped and the Taliban came to power. Then the U.S. was attacked on Sept. 11, 2001, he said. "What do we think will happen when we turn our backs on Afghanistan again? Yet that is exactly what we are doing," he said. "The bottom line is the threat of terrorism is increasing."
- Turning to domestic politics, Cheney said even though the Republicans lost the last two federal elections, he was not ready to write off his party or its Tea Party factions. "I am reluctant to let the critics define us," he said.

Ford Nation continues to stand behind their man

In Ford Nation, there were shrugs, rolling eyes and a lot of defence of Mayor Rob Ford when Thursday's news broke.

After Toronto police announced they had conducted a months-long surveillance operation and watched Ford visit with a known drug dealer four times a week, and later when Chief Bill Blair told reporters the force had recovered the video that appears to show him smoking crack, more than a few people said the police had overstepped their duty.

At Humbertown Mall, in the heart of Etobicoke at Dundas St. W. and Royal York Rd., seniors from a nearby retirement home were relaxing after a shopping trip.

They said they were sick of hearing news about Mayor Ford.

"The police are picking on him," Renee Berkun said. "On the whole, he's done a pretty good job — nobody's perfect."

"Following him constantly, that's harassment, I'd say," she said.

When the seniors' bus driver, Latisha Mohammed, came to collect the group, she paused to defend the mayor, saying that, crack video or no crack video, she remains a fan.

"I really like the man," she said. "People make mistakes. If it was anyone else, it wouldn't be a big deal, but because it's Rob Ford, it's a big deal."

Mohammed said it doesn't matter that the police have confirmed the video is real. She wants to see it herself, otherwise, "it's just propaganda."

Outside in the drizzle, Christopher Schelck smoked a cigarette and laughed at the news.

"That's awesome!" he said. "It's bad for him, but he'll get re-elected because we're all creatures of habit," he said.

Tapping away at his iPad, Will, a recent immigrant who declined to give his last name, exclaimed "Wow!" when he came across the news the police had a copy of the Ford video. "That's big news."

"It's the kind of thing I'd expect at home (in Thailand)," he said. "Here the leaders need to be clean."

Asked if Ford should resign, Will thought for a second before responding: "For the ethics, maybe he has to."

Ken Smith, a drug counsellor and a former drug addict, said Ford isn't qualified to lead the city in this condition.

"I did some of the things he did, but I've changed my life. I've taken responsibility for my actions."

Province won't act on Ford news ... yet

Next step. Mayor's fate in hands of justice system for now: Wynne

Despite revelations Mayor Rob Ford is being investigated by Toronto police over secret meetings with an alleged drug dealer, the Ontario government would not act before a criminal conviction.

"There's nothing that we can do at this point. The province has no power to remove anybody and obviously we'd have to wait until the investigation unfolds as to next steps," a "saddened" Municipal Affairs Minister Linda Jeffrey told reporters Thursday.

"A conviction is the next step for any action by the province," said Jeffrey.

But the minister did say if Ford, who has not been charged with anything, were convicted of a criminal offence, it'd be more difficult to keep his seat.

"As a political figure it is far more challenging when you're convicted and certainly these are very serious allegations," she said.

Earlier in the day — before Toronto police Chief Bill Blair confirmed the existence of the infamous Ford "crack video" — Premier Kathleen Wynne had refused to "weigh in" to the controversy.

Minutes after the release of hundreds of pages of court documents on Ford's dealings with Sandro Lisi, Wynne was asked what the provincial government planned to do.

"I'm not going to weigh into an area where I just don't know what the issues are going to be," the premier told reporters at an event in Brampton where she was promoting the enhancement of the Canada Pension Plan.

"It's for the police to deal with. I really don't have a comment on what has been released today ..." she said.

"It's up to the justice system to deal with these issues."

Provincial authority

Under Ontario's City of Toronto Act, Municipal Affairs Minister Linda Jeffrey could order a mayoral and council byelection only under extraordinary circumstances.

- "If city council is unable to hold a meeting for a period of 60 days because of a failure to obtain a quorum, the Minister of Municipal Affairs and Housing may ... declare all the offices of the members of the council to be vacant and a byelection shall be held ..." the act states.

Holyday mum on revelations

Former deputy mayor Doug Holyday would not comment when asked if Mayor Rob Ford should step down.

"It's not up to me to say that," Holyday, the newly elected Progressive Conservative MPP for Etobicoke-Lakeshore, said as he emerged from the legislature's question period after Chief Blair revealed investigators have the video.

Holyday said he did not doubt Star reporters Kevin Donovan and Robyn Doolittle had seen a video.

"I believe that the reporters did not lie. They said they saw something, they saw it. How accurate or valid it is, I do not know," he said as Conservative Leader Tim Hudak's press secretary pulled him away from reporters.

Conservative Canada keeping mum on Ford

Friends in high places?
Our embattled mayor fished and BBQed with the PM, but Harper and others are offering no public support now

Mayor Rob Ford's federal friends and political allies were quiet on Thursday after revelations he was the target of a sweeping drug investigation by the Toronto police.

Prime Minister Stephen Harper's office offered no comment when contacted by Torstar News Service. Finance Minister Jim Flaherty's office said he's in western Canada, and will not be commenting on the story.

Both men have been close with Ford in recent years, speaking at the mayor's annual Etobicoke backyard barbecue in 2011.

At the 2011 barbecue, Harper congratulated Ford on a new "dynasty" in Toronto municipal politics.

"Rob is doing something very important that needs to be done here. He is cleaning up the NDP mess here in Toronto, so that's great," Harper told the crowd.

"We started up the left-wing mess federally in this area, Rob's doing it municipally, and now we have to complete the hat trick and do it provincially as well."

Ford has also boasted of semi-annual fishing trips at the prime minister's summer retreat at Harrington Lake, most recently in 2012. Harper's office would not say Thursday if the mayor made a repeat trip to the Gatineau Hills in 2013.

Questions

"Mr. Ford is a well-known friend of both the prime minister and the minister of finance, so it raises questions about the Conservative leadership."

What now for council?

If Ford were to take a leave of absence, Deputy Mayor Norm Kelly, a 20-year council veteran, would assume his duties. If Ford were to resign — he says there is "no reason" for him to do so — Kelly would take over until council either appointed someone as mayor or called a byelection.

The appointee or byelection winner would serve until Dec. 2014. The timing of the crisis, which comes three years into a four-year term, could make an appointment more attractive to councillors: A byelection costs about $9 million, and the 10-month campaign period for the regularly scheduled Oct. 27, 2014 election begins in only two months.

Ford's grip on council has been tenuous or worse for more than a year: He has lost major battles on the budget, transit, and the waterfront. If he decides to stay in office, he is likely to be sidelined even further.

TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Fighting words

"Frankly he is isolated and marginalized on council. He commands maybe maximum 10 votes when he applies a lot of pressure and focus. He has almost no impact on council."

Coun. Joe Mihevc, a Ford opponent

TTC PRESSING THE TRANSIT FUNDING CASE IN OTTAWA

ANDY BYFORD
CEO
TORONTO TRANSIT COMMISSION

Earlier this week, I was part of a delegation of the Canadian Urban Transit Association (CUTA) that spent two days in Ottawa meeting Members of Parliament. In an intense schedule of meetings, we spoke with MPs from all parties and pressed the case for sustained, affordable funding for transit.

Our key messages included highlighting the economic benefits of effective public transit, the need for ongoing investment to aid research and development into transit technology, and a call for stiffer penalties for those who assault transit workers.

I intend to spend a good deal of my time over the coming months, making the case for the TTC's budget with all three orders of government. In addition to speaking with federal and provincial politicians, I am seeking an increase in subsidy from City Council to enable the TTC to keep up with ever-increasing customer numbers and to invest in further service improvements. I see this as investment in both the TTC's and, by extension, the city's future.

While I was in Ottawa, I took the opportunity to hand out copies of the TTC's Five-Year Corporate Plan. It's important to ensure that MPs understand the challenges we face in Toronto and the steps that we are taking to improve your service.

It's all part of a concerted campaign to get Toronto's transit the funding it deserves.

EMPLOYEE PROFILE

Name:
Julie Yeadon

Position:
Bus Operator

Years of Service:
6 months

I am proud to tell people I am a transit operator at the TTC. It's not just about the driving, it's about the people. I play a key role in an important service Toronto needs. I am responsible for the safety of the customers, other drivers on the road, and myself. Getting customers to their destination safely and efficiently is my primary focus.

Poppy campaign

The Royal Canadian Legion's annual poppy campaign officially kicked off one week ago today at Davisville Station. Grade 6 students from nearby Davisville Public School received poppies from veterans of the Canadian military, including 10 veterans of the Second World War who now reside at Sunnybrook Health Sciences Centre's Veterans Centre. Until Remembrance Day, Nov. 11, members of the Royal Canadian Legion will be selling poppies in TTC subway stations to help support veterans and their families.

ALL SET FOR THE HALLOWEEN SHIFT

Looks like three-and-a-half-year-old Mohammed-Ziyad Mahmud is ready for the TTC workforce. Well, maybe he was just preparing for Halloween. Thanks to his dad, Waqas, for sending the TTC this photo, and see you in 20 years Mohammed-Ziyad.

THE KINDER WAY

Please help make TTC the kinder way by offering your seat to persons with disabilities, the elderly, expectant mothers or to anyone needing assistance. Thank you.

SUBWAY CLOSURE: KIPLING TO JANE STATIONS

This weekend, on Sat., Nov. 2 and Sun., Nov. 3, the Bloor-Danforth line will be closed from Kipling to Jane stations for scheduled track upgrades. The nature of the work involves replacing track switches and subway rail ties. During the closure, shuttle buses will operate every two to four minutes between Kipling and Jane stations, with Wheel-Trans available for customers requiring an accessible connection. Staff will be on hand to offer assistance. Regular subway service resumes at 6 a.m. on Mon., Nov. 4.

Party tensions set the tone for Tory convention

Conservative quagmire. MPs and delegates have begun to arrive in Calgary amidst political controversy

A flood postponed their convention in the spring — now Conservatives are facing a deluge of political challenges as they gather in the party's heartland.

The ongoing Senate expenses scandal and allegations of a coverup at the most senior levels is expected to be a hot topic in the convention corridors, even if the upper chamber is not officially on the agenda.

The Conservative caucus and senior ranks have been wearied by the controversy. Some say they have felt broadsided by constant bursts of new information — including embattled Sen. Mike Duffy's latest revelation that the party paid $13,500 for his legal fees. That's in addition to the $90,000 the prime minister's chief of staff secretly gave to Duffy to repay contested living expenses.

But the roller-coaster ride in Ottawa hasn't appeared to put a damper on registrations for the convention.

MPs and delegates began streaming into the city Thursday, as registration opened at the Calgary stampede grounds — an area that was underwater during the June floods.

Party president John Walsh says despite the change in dates due to this spring's flooding in Alberta, he predicts a record 3,000 people will attend Stephen Harper's keynote speech Friday night.

Britain. Prosecutor enlivens phone-hacking trial with sexy allegation

In a blockbuster court declaration in Britain's phone-hacking trial, prosecutor Andrew Edis says two of Rupert Murdoch's senior tabloid executives — Andy Coulson and Rebekah Brooks — had an affair lasting at least six years.

The affair covered the period when she was editor of Murdoch's News of the World tabloid and Coulson was her deputy. Coulson later edited the same paper and then became a top media adviser to Prime Minister David Cameron.

Edis made the disclosure Thursday during Coulson and Brooks' trial on phone-hacking allegations, the first major criminal case to go to court in the hacking saga. Coulson, Brooks, and her husband, Charles, all deny the charges against them.

Quebec

Man rescued months after bear attack

A man has been rescued, clinging to his life, after spending three months in a remote forest in Quebec during which he survived a bear attack.

Police are sharing the improbable story of Marco Lavoie, 44, an experienced hiker who set off on what was supposed to be a two-month excursion on July 16, 2013. Police can't say exactly when the bear attack occurred but it was likely in mid-August.

Three pumpkins

Jacked-up-o'-lantern

Montreal border officials have stumbled upon a Halloween surprise.

The Canada Border Services Agency says a woman was arrested Thursday with three pumpkins in her luggage at Montreal's Trudeau International Airport. The pumpkins were allegedly stuffed with two kilograms of what is believed to be cocaine.

The CBSA says that since the beginning of 2013, Montreal's airport has had 173 drug seizures. Ten of those involved cocaine.

Kenyan women demand justice for rape victim

Rally protests teen's gang-rape. Police freed suspects after making them cut grass as punishment

Hundreds of women protest, at a demonstration in Nairobi, Kenya, Thursday, after a teenager was allegedly gang-raped in June and no one was jailed. Police who arrested the suspected perpetrators freed them after only making them cut grass at a police station as punishment. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hundreds of women in Kenya are protesting after a teenager was allegedly gang-raped and the only punishment for the suspects was that they had to mow the police station lawn.

About 300 women marched through Kenya's capital on Thursday to protest the alleged rape of a 16-year-old girl publicly identified only as Liz.

The online activist group Avaaz says Liz was gang-raped in June and she is now wheelchair-bound. The group says police arrested the suspected perpetrators but only made them cut grass at the police station as punishment.

More than 1.3 million people have signed an Avaaz petition calling for the prosecution of the alleged rapists and an investigation of the police who freed the suspects.

One protester, Fanis Lisegali, noted that Liz now suffers from health problems, including a fistula. Lisegali said he wants the government to ensure that justice is carried out. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Remains of 360 people dug from Bosnia grave

Two decades after Serb soldiers conducted house-to-house searches in a campaign of ethnic killings in Bosnia, forensic scientists are digging up what could turn out to be the largest mass grave from the 1992-95 war.

So far, the remains of 360 people have been found at the Tomasica mass grave discovered in September near the northern town of Prijedor, far more than expected, authorities said Thursday. The number is expected to rise and could one day surpass the 629 bodies found at Crni Vrh in Srebrenica.

The Missing Persons' Institute said the Tomasica grave is linked to a secondary one found in 2003 about 10 kilometres away, where 373 bodies were extracted. Authorities believe the killers moved parts of the remains from one grave to the other to hide the crime. The bodies are of Bosniak and Croat men, women and children killed in their villages during the war. Most of the victims were killed in their villages but teams have also found bullets in the grave which indicates this was also an execution site.

Jane Falconi:
Mood brightener

HEATHER BEAUMONT
For Metro

Volunteerism is a family tradition for retired elementary school teacher Jane Falconi.

"My family believes in volunteering," said Falconi, whose husband Gino has volunteered at Villa Colombo Home for the Aged for four years. "My parents were active volunteers. It's nice to give back."

On Thursday mornings for the past 15 years, Falconi has volunteered in the breast imaging department at Women's College Hospital where she meets and greets patients.

Visitors hand Falconi a pink requisition form from the Ontario Breast Screening Program or their general practitioner.

"Sometimes their hands are trembling," Falconi said. "We're there to support them and make it as painless as possible.

"You have to be sensitive. You have to know when to zoom in and when to shut up."

Some of the patients are hard of hearing, some may have forgotten their glasses and for others, English is their second language. When they ask for assistance completing forms for the hospital's breast imaging technologists and radiologists, Falconi, 71, acts as a gentle guide.

"I interpret questions. 'Have you ever had an US (ultrasound) or an MRI (magnetic resonance imaging)?' 'When was your last period?' Some break into gales of laughter and say, 'I'm 70.' I suggest they put a question mark for that one."

Falconi also distributes blue gowns and provides guidelines about undressing.

"Some have Parkinson's or arthritis and they need help unzipping or removing clothes. If a woman is on a scooter, she may need me to get the gown down for her."

Sometimes patients ask Falconi why she volunteers at the hospital. In 1990, she was diagnosed with breast cancer.

After eight years of good health, on the day of a mammogram, Falconi visited the hospital's volunteer department and asked, "Do you think you can use me?"

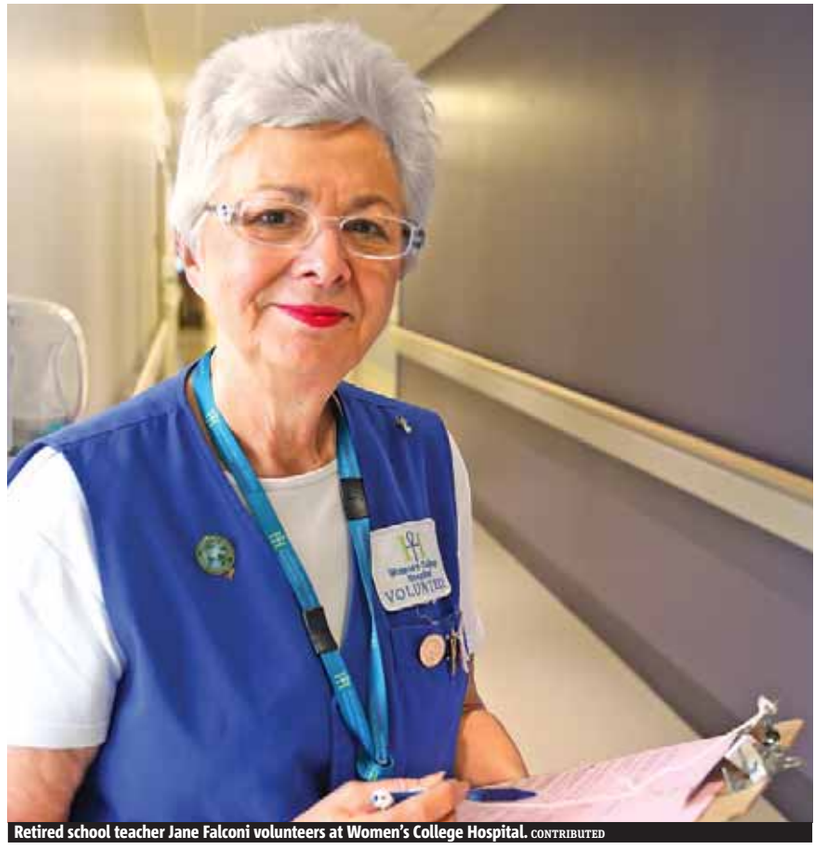
She added, "People were good to me and I saw a need."

Hospital staff value Falconi for her dedication and the clear instructions she provides to patients.

"She lights up a room," said Nora Milne, co-ordinator, volunteer resources at Women's College Hospital. "The breast imaging technologists and radiologists say they know when Jane is the volunteer on shift because they can hear the patients laughing."

Falconi clearly encourages a social atmosphere in the waiting room.

"It's affirming when there are jokes that go around," she said. "As long as they want me and as long as my heath allows, I'll continue on."



Retired school teacher Jane Falconi volunteers at Women's College Hospital. CONTRIBUTED

Watchdog raps CSIS

Detained. Montreal man claims he was tortured by Sudanese intelligence officials during two periods of detention, but Canada says it knew nothing of the alleged abuse

Canada's spy agency inappropriately disclosed personal and classified information about a Montreal man while he was imprisoned in Sudan, says a federal watchdog.

In its annual report tabled Thursday, the body that reviews the activities of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service also says CSIS reported inaccurate and exaggerated information to partner agencies about Abousfian Abdelrazik's case.

Abdelrazik, 51, was arrested but not charged during a 2003 visit to see his ailing mother in Sudan.

While in Sudanese custody, he was interrogated by CSIS about suspected extremist links.

In its report, the Security Intelligence Review Committee found no indication that CSIS had asked Sudanese authorities to arrest or detain Abdelrazik.

Days after Abdelrazik's second release from prison in July 2006, his name appeared on a United Nations Security Council blacklist that prevented him from flying back to Canada.

Abdelrazik, who has four children, finally returned to Montreal in June 2009. That same month, the Federal Court of Canada concluded CSIS was complicit in his 2003 detention.

Abdelrazik is suing both the federal government and former foreign affairs minister Lawrence Cannon. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rome: Activists clash with riot police over housing

Activists, some wearing Guy Fawkes masks, clash with Carabinieri police in riot gear during a demonstration in Rome on Thursday. Clashes between police and activists broke out during a demonstration by protesters demanding rights to have a home when police prevented the marchers from reaching a nearby location where a meeting between representatives from the government, regional authorities and city hall was taking place to discuss housing policies in the capital.

The dream of lazy people everywhere. Amazon set to deliver groceries to you

Online retailer Amazon is taking on supermarkets by delivering food directly to Canadians' doorsteps.

The retail giant, which built its business selling books and entertainment through the mail, launched its new grocery category Thursday, in what's certain to be an intensifying battle between grocers.

Amazon says the initial selection includes 15,000 non-perishable grocery products, like coffee, cereal and baby food, from a variety of brands such as Campbell, Nestle, Pepsi and Kellogg.

While the launch doesn't include perishables like milk, fruits or vegetables, it's a strong sign that Amazon wants to make inroads in an area of the food business that hasn't been tapped by any company in Canada outside of major cities.

The strategic move will make it tougher for the country's biggest grocers like Loblaws, Sobeys and Metro, who have been focused in the last few years on competing against U.S. big box retailers like Target and Walmart.

Goodfella turns celebrity chef

Kitchen Consigliere. Instead of swimming with the fishes, Angelo Lutz is serving up fish dishes, and other classic Italian fare

When he was on trial for racketeering, Angelo Lutz denied the Mob's existence, but now he's using his past in organized crime to promote his new restaurant, the Kitchen Consigliere.

The sign out front echoes the logo for The Godfather, but with a chef's hat. A mural on one wall puts Lutz, also known as Fat Ange, at a table with famous gangsters, both real (John Gotti) and fictional (Tony Soprano). Sconces to hold lights look like 9-mm handguns.

Lutz is using some unsavoury associations as he attempts a transformation from prisoner to opinionated celebrity chef.

Last week, he moved his operations from an 11-table restaurant to one three times as large on a prominent corner of the hip, foodie-friendly Philadelphia suburb of Collingswood.

Lutz was one of seven men convicted in a 2001 Mob trial that made him a celebrity. The night before he entered prison, he cooked for his own going-away party, leading one TV reporter to call him "the kitchen consigliere."

KITTY DOUBLES AS CANDY MAN

THE METRO LIST

Mike Benhaim
metronews.ca

1 Diploma-see? North Korea's Kim Jong-un received an honorary PhD from a private Malaysian university. The institution bestowed the leader with a doctor of economics degree. Dr. Kim will, no doubt, wield the title with a straight face while governing one of the world's most dysfunctional countries, but on the bright side, maybe now he can get another job.

2 Spy vs. spy. There was an outcry of shock and disbelief in Europe after discovering that the U.S. National Security Agency was listening in on high-ranking Spanish, German and French officials. Government spokespeople issued disapproving statements with words like "disgraceful," or "appalling," referring of course to the act of getting caught.

3 Mama say what? Just months after Kim Kardashian gave birth to her daughter, the reality star is thinking of posing for Playboy again. Apparently, she is eager to show all of those people that made fun of her weight gain that she is hot again. Way to go, Kimmy. It's nice to see those maternal instincts kicking in.

4 Here's lookin' at you. Employing eye-tracking technology that measures, in milliseconds, how long the eyes are fixed on certain spots, a new study revealed that men spent more time on women's bodies than their faces. Before this technology, scientists lacked conclusive proof as they relied solely on verbal information, which brings us to two conclusions: Men are perverts, AND liars. And people say we don't spend enough on education.

5 Oops. A teaching assistant at the University of Iowa sent her math students an email saying, "Hi Class, I attach the solutions for number 76 and 78." Instead, she accidentally sent nude pictures of her and a man pleasuring themselves. The images went viral immediately, but even more regrettable was that some students spent the entire night trying to figure out how those images could possibly add up to the square root of a prime number.

6 The pusher. A cat in the European Republic of Moldova had been travelling freely in and out of the local prison through a hole in a fence. Suspicious guards apprehended the feline and discovered two packets of cannabis attached to its collar. The cat's lawyer argued that it was prescribed for a medical condition, and drew a plea bargain in exchange for the whereabouts of a long sought-after bunny rabbit that had been hiding out nearby.

7 This week in music. In 1998, Cher became the first woman over 50 to have a No. 1 single in the U.K. with Believe. But when Cher does something, she goes all the way. The song hit No. 1 in another 22 countries as well. That was 15 years ago, and she probably has one left in her.

8 Walk on the Wild Side. This week, we lost rock 'n' roll pioneer Lou Reed, lead singer and songwriter for one of the greatest bands to barely sell any records, The Velvet Underground. Lou was a poet and innovator of change. He walked softly with purpose, blazing a trail for all who followed. He will be missed.

Marine diatom pic wins contest

The picture of Chaetoceros debilis, a marine diatom, was captured by Dutch photographer Wim van Egmond. METRO

Q and A

'They are tragically beyond our perception'

WIM VAN EGMOND
Photographer, 47, from Berkel en Rodenrijs, the Netherlands

What exactly is it?
This particular species forms a colony in the shape of a chain like a helix. I gathered this sample from the North Sea by the Dutch coast.

Why is taking photographs of plankton so important?
I'm basically shining a light on a world that we know very little about, but one that is so important to our existence. Diatoms produce almost half of the Earth's oxygen through photosynthesis in our oceans. What's more, diatoms and other plankton are the foundation of the food chain in the natural world. Their role in our lives cannot be understated, but since diatoms seem invisible to us, they are tragically beyond our perception.

You're a die-hard diatom fan ...
Yes, they are so wonderful and bizarre; with 25,000 different species of them, with no two individuals exactly alike, diatoms are an endless source of inspiration. This is the basis from which all life started. METRO

Synopsis

When Tim Lake (Domhnall Gleeson) turned 21 his father (Bill Nighy) lets him in on a family secret — he comes from a long line of time travellers. With visions of inter-dimensional travel in his head he does what any 21-year-old might do — use his unique ability to get a girlfriend. The object of his affections is Mary (Rachel McAdams), but to win her over he'll have to use his special gift to hone his Casanova skills.

Running out of Time

About Time. Rachel McAdams continues to take on time travel movies but the latest seems to hit the right note with a sentimental approach

Richard: Mark, this is the kind of movie critics will call sappy and sentimental. They'll bash it because it wears its heart on its sleeve, which is exactly the reason I liked it.

After The Time Traveller's Wife it's time Rachel McAdams got a time travel romance right. It's a silly premise but for me the idea wasn't about the time travel, but the lessons Tim learns from the time travel about life and happiness. What did you think?

Mark: Richard, as you know, I am no fun. No fun at all. So I spent most of the movie looking for paradoxes in the physics of the time travel conceit. Like all time travel movies, it sets up arbitrary rules, and then breaks them all over the place.

The movie features two of the worst haircuts in the history of cinema, and a romance I didn't really care about. But there's another deeper movie in there, which is a movie about fathers and sons, and I liked that part very much. Sentimental? Yes, but I felt that part of the movie worked better than its rom-com components. Of course, it could have been the haircuts.

RC: I didn't actually care much about the romance angle or the time travel. I was drawn to the film because of Domhnall Gleeson's charming and slightly goofy performance.

If John Hughes had made British films he would have loved this guy. He does have a bad haircut, but I thought he was a charming, if unlikely, leading man. He has a way with a line and I felt there was a real arc to his character. He literally grows up and becomes a man on screen, which is something you don't see in rom-coms very often.

MB: True enough, although I always thought there should be a law barring gingers from appearing in television and film.

I liked a lot of the scenes in the movie, especially one set in one of those noir restaurants, where you eat in total darkness. It's a literal blind date, and a nice twist on "meeting cute." Bill Nighy is wonderful in the movie, as he always is, and Rachel McAdams does a good version of cute, although she looked about five years too old for the part.

But then Gleeson would go into a closet and ball his fists and ... some of the goodwill was lost for me.

RC: Richard E. Grant's three-minute cameo is almost worth the price of admission. He has one of the best reaction shots I've seen this year.

MB: And a similar hairline as Nighy. Hmmmm....

Channing Tatum. Actor's burlesque magic gets its own A&E docuseries

The channel that brings us Duck Dynasty is getting a whole lot sexier.

Channing Tatum is producing a docuseries for A&E following the lives of New Orleans exotic dancers.

The series will follow several entertainers who work at Saints and Sinners, the burlesque club Tatum opened last year.

While Tatum hasn't revealed whether or not he will appear on the show, his "magic" touch is sure to help with ratings and provide some variety to the channel famous for Storage Wars and American Hoggers.

Producer Charlie Corwin, known for a slew of TV shows and movies ranging from The Rachel Zoe Project to The Squid and the Whale, has also signed on. METRO

There's more to Loki than long black hair

Thor: The Dark World. Tom Hiddleston is OK with not reprising his role in the next Avengers because he's busy with other projects

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Tom Hiddleston has made a name for himself as Thor's brother and main nemesis, with Thor: the Dark World marking his third big-screen turn as the Norse god of mischief. Hiddleston even showed up to Comic-Con this summer in character to delight fans during the Marvel presentation, though his character won't be appearing in Avengers: the Age of Ultron. But that's fine by Hiddleston, who has plenty of other projects to keep him busy.

Tom Hiddleston returns as Loki next Friday in Thor: the Dark World.
CONTRIBUTED

What was your honest reaction when Joss Whedon told you Loki would not be in the second Avengers film?
My honest reaction was, "That's fine." I never wanted to overstay my welcome, and I've had such a good run with the character. I've enjoyed it so much. It was expected, to be honest, that Joss told me he wasn't going to put me in it. So yeah, my honest reaction was, "All right. Maybe it's time for me to play a few characters who don't have long black hair."

Between your turns at playing Loki, you've also been working in some independent films and a ton of Shakespeare. How do you approach jumping between so many diverse projects?
I honestly love doing them all; it's really true. I get so many different things from each. I've never wanted to impose limits on my work. Actors make the best choices they can in the moment, and quite often the way the picture is assembled, it looks like there's been some grand master plan, but actually it's all very accidental. I just have a genuine love for it all. I suppose I've always wanted to be able to jump between things. I never wanted to be just the Shakespeare guy and I certainly never wanted to be just the superhero guy or even the indie kid. I should be so lucky, frankly, that I get to do any of these things. I think the variety really keeps me sharp. I had a day between getting back from Tangier (for Jim Jarmusch's Only Lovers Left Alive) and starting on Thor 2. The head shift was very quick. I finished with Tilda (Swinton); I flew back from Morocco; I put my clothes in the washing machine and the next morning I got up and I was in Asgard with Chris Hemsworth. And I love that. I love that that's what my life is. Here I am talking to you, then I'll go home and I'll start Coriolanus. It's nice.

Comedy

Last Vegas

Director. Jon Turteltaub

Stars. Robert De Niro, Michael Douglas, Morgan Freeman and Kevin Kline

Take every cliché about ageing Lotharios, blend in barroom brawls, boobs and booze, add four ageing Academy Award winners doing embarrassing things and you have Last Vegas. The Flatbush Four childhood pals reunite in Vegas to celebrate one's marriage to a 32-year-old, but a woman of a more appropriate vintage (Mary Steenburgen) enters the picture, dividing the group. Cardboard characters deliver lines that sound hollow. Considering the talents involved it's a shame. ANNE BRODIE

Drama

Dallas Buyers Club

Director. Jean-Marc Vallee

Stars. Matthew McConaughey, Jared Leto

Matthew McConaughey plays Ronnie Woodruff, a Texan oil rig electrician diagnosed with HIV. His search for a cure leads to a non-FDA approved holistic approach and with the help of cross-dresser Rayon (Jared Leto), he establishes the Dallas Buyers Club where customers pay $400 monthly in return for unlimited access to Woodruff's stash of illegal but effective concoctions. At the core are dual powerhouse performances from McConaughey and Leto. RICHARD CROUSE

Free Birds

Director. Jimmy Hayward

Stars. Owen Wilson, Amy Poehler

A ridiculous series of events sends Reggie (Wilson) on a mission to stop his fellow fowl from being served at the first Thanksgiving and thus save millions of birds from becoming the centrepiece of the traditional meal for the rest of history. One should expect a certain level of unreality from a film about time-travelling turkeys. But Free Birds is so far-fetched and implausible that it's practically unwatchable. Even comedic favourites Wilson and Poehler can't breathe any life into the absurd plot. REGAN REID

Ender's Game

Director. Gavin Hood

Stars. Asa Butterfield, Harrison Ford

According to Orson Scott Card's hit novel Ender's Game, the future of mankind rests on turning kids into extraterrestrial killing machines and cadet commander Harrison Ford has his sights set on one conflicted adolescent saviour. While the drama is solemnly serious and short on fun, the performances (especially young Asa Butterfield) are decent and the effects entertaining enough to likely keep many kiddies captivated. For the rest of us, Ender's Game is simply played out. STEVE GOW

Action

Man of Tai Chi

Director. Keanu Reeves

Stars. Keanu Reeves, Tiger Hu Chen

With Man of Tai Chi, director Keanu Reeves has made an entertaining genre movie that pays tribute to the past with a traditional story about honour and the discipline of martial arts. A practitioner of Tai Chi, Linhu (Tiger Hu Chen) is a humble man who becomes increasingly violent when he is recruited by businessman Donaka Mark (Reeves) to battle in an underground (and illegal) fight club. Reeves throws in a curveball or two, but it is essentially possible to draw a straight line between this story — in Chinese with subtitles — and the great kung fu movies of Bruce Lee and the Shaw Brothers. RICHARD CROUSE

Drama

The Disappeared

Director. Shandi Mitchell

Stars. Billy Campbell, Ryan Doucette, Brian Downey

Director Shandi Mitchell's debut feature tells the captivating story of six shipwrecked fishermen fighting to survive the elements after their vessel sinks in the North Atlantic. With limited food and water available, the men — three to a small rowboat — face predictably gruelling physical conditions, but Mitchell's authentic dialogue paired with heartrending performances from Billy Campbell as injured Mannie and Shawn Doyle as group agitator Pete reveal the greater challenge of tolerating one another as days pass and hope of rescue dwindles. MANORI RAVINDRAN

Documentary

Inequality For All

Director. Jacob Kornbluth

Star. Robert Reich

Bill Clinton's former labour secretary Robert Reich is the star of Jacob Kornbluth's documentary about widening income inequality, which won Sundance's Special Jury Prize earlier this year. Reich, now a professor at UC Berkeley, demonstrates how income is concentrated in the U.S., driving home the point that as inequality rises, upward mobility decreases. The gregarious Reich forgoes numbing statistics in favour of dynamic graphs and visuals, but Kornbluth's sole focus on his protagonist leaves you eager for other opinions.

MANORI RAVINDRAN

Biography

Diana

Director. Oliver Hirschbiegel

Stars. Naomi Watts, Naveen Andrews

Naomi Watts plays Princess Diana in the last three years of her life when she was separated from Prince Charles and romancing heart surgeon Dr. Hasnat Khan (Naveen Andrews). This uneven film feels like a Cole's Notes. I imagine the choppiness is supposed to portray the chaos that swirled around Diana, but instead presents as a disjointed montage. Combine that with clunky dialogue and the suggestion that Diana was the manipulator of the media that killed her and you have a film that plays like a National Enquirer exposé.

RICHARD CROUSE

Documentary

Oil Sands Karaoke

Director. Charles Wilkinson

Stars. Dan Debrabandere, Chad Ellis, Brandy Willier

It's not every day you glimpse the lives of those running the oil sands. But the same Northern Alberta mines at the centre of an environmental and political firestorm employ 20,000 workers, five of whom are profiled in Charles Wilkinson's documentary as they compete in a Fort McMurray bar's karaoke contest. All recognize their impossible situations — a dilemma that offers an essential perspective that could further understanding of a polarizing occupation.

Hi-Ho Mistahey!

Director. Alanis Obomsawin

First Nations filmmaker Alanis Obomsawin continues to use her camera as an eye on conditions on First Nations reservations across the country, most recently in The People of the Kattawapiskak River which helped draw world attention to dismal and dangerous living conditions in Attawapiskat. Obomsawin's Hi-Ho Mistahey! reveals appalling deficiencies in education on Canada's reservations and a grassroots campaign to fix it begun by the late Attawapiskat activist Shannen Koostachin (she died in a car crash three years ago at age 14). Can a movie make a difference? Maybe this one can.

Drama

All the Wrong Reasons

Director. Gia Milani

Stars. Cory Monteith, Karine Vanasse

The title says it all: the characters in this Canadian drama suffer because of poor decisions made by others. The ensemble are linked by the discount store that employs them, a dreary workplace that only exacerbates their personal problems. Manager James' (Cory Monteith, in one of his final roles) and his wife Kate are estranged after Kate's sister commits suicide. James turns to cashier Nicole who resents Kate. Meanwhile Kate, who fears being touched, finds comfort talking to former firefighter Simon, an amputee. Writer-director Gia Milani navigates their lives with ease, making each character sympathetic.

IAN GORMELY

Documentary

The Genius of Marian

Directors. Banker White, Anna Fitch

In The Genius of Marian, filmmaker Banker White follows his affable mother as she slides into dementia — the same fate dealt to her own artistic mother. As expected, the intimate portrayal is emotionally affecting but White's genius is that he lays low on lament, which ultimately instills the film with further resonance. Marian is a heartfelt personal profile of a woman who will break moviegoers' hearts even as she wins them over with an effervescent smile.

Jack Huston marches to his very own Beat

Kill Your Darlings. Actor talks about the non-conformist ways of Ginsberg and co.

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Boardwalk Empire star Jack Huston explores a different part of the 20th century with Kill Your Darlings, in which he stars as Jack Kerouac opposite Daniel Radcliffe's Allen Ginsburg in a drama about the early days of the Beat Generation.

So what's the secret to getting the Beats right?

I think where we were lucky with this was it was before they were the Beats. This is the moment they met, and it's fun watching something take flight. You realize very quickly the person behind it all was Lucien Carr, and that's the person who I didn't know anything about, which is great about this story because we're actually being told about something we didn't know. I didn't know about the murder, which I thought was interesting. I think this film does a really good job of telling a story aside from these characters being who they are. I feel like at the moment there is this new sort of flux of Beat movies coming on, and everything of course happens all at once, but this movie stands on its own very well.

Why do you think all of a sudden there are all these Beat Generation projects?

There is a big resurgence. Like Brooklyn, for instance. They were the original hipsters. You feel like now there's this new wave of Beats, everyone wanting to recreate this moment. That's why it's such an important moment for this movie. This is what started it, these are the guys who sort of broke the mold, who were non-comformist, who wanted to find an original voice.

Jack Huston, far right, plays Jack Kerouac in Kill Your Darlings, which opens next Friday. CONTRIBUTED

Reflektor. Album's not quite on fire this time

The reviews are in, and Arcade Fire's sprawling new opus Reflektor has critics deeply divided.

The 75-minute, two-disc followup to the Montreal band's Grammy-winning hit The Suburbs has received some raves, but perhaps not the near-universal praise of their past work.

On the positive side, influential music website Pitchfork — one of Arcade Fire's earliest champions — lavished the album with a 9.2 review, concluding that Reflektor is "an album that dares to be great, and remarkably succeeds."

One didn't have to look far for a negative counterbalance, however.

In a shrugging three-out-of-five-star review, the Guardian criticized the record's length and ultimately declared that Reflektor "sounds like the work of a band that have plenty of good ideas, but increasingly can't tell them from their bad ones — or won't be told."

All three of this week's tracks are covers—but they're not exactly what you'd call tributes

No Woman No Drive/Alaa Wardi

With more Saudi women openly defying the country's ban on them driving, local star Alaa Wardi offers his support by rewriting a Bob Marley classic.

jIyIntaHvIS not qajegh/A Couple of Klingons

No, that title isn't a typo.

If you're going to Rickroll your friends, why not do it in Klingon? I'm sure this song had the High Council rolling in the aisles back on Qo'noS.

Sail/A Tesla Coil

Tesla Coils can provide endless fun, especially when harnessed to create music. Still, I wouldn't try this at home.

Magic and loss. Patti Smith reflects on her late friend, Lou Reed

Patti Smith shared her thoughts on the loss of Lou Reed. CONTRIBUTED

Patti Smith is remembering her friend, inspiration and fellow poet-musician Lou Reed, who died Sunday at age 71.

Smith tells The Associated Press the first time she saw Reed in person was in 1970. She says he and the Velvet Underground were performing at the Manhattan club Max's Kansas City. She says she made it her business to study him.

Smith says she is pleased by the global impact of Reed's passing and by the stories of how his songs affected people's lives.

Smith cited Pale Blue Eyes as a personal favourite. She says the ballad reminded her of her late husband, guitarist Fred "Sonic" Smith.

She also praised Reed's romantic Perfect Day. She sings it often in concert and finds herself moved when audiences join in.

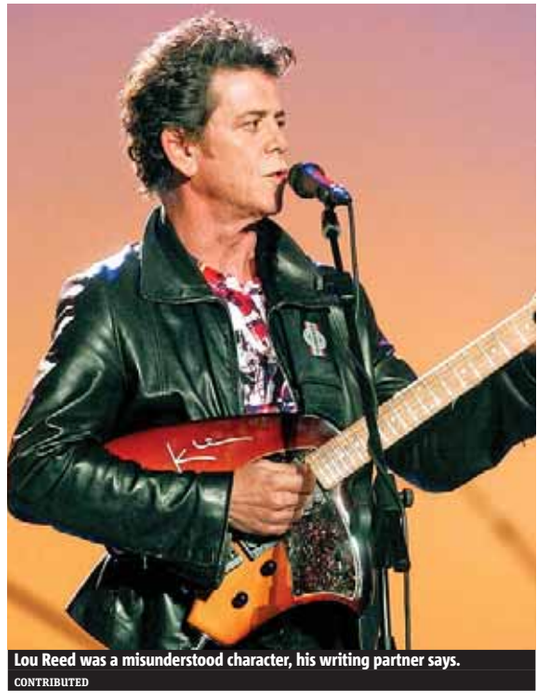
Lou Reed wasn't perfect, but he was a 'treasure'

Death. A week after his death, musical icon's Canadian partner tells of how he was a misunderstood man



Lou Reed was a misunderstood character, his writing partner says. CONTRIBUTED

More than 40 years ago, Lou Reed sat on the floor of Bob Ezrin's house on Summerhill Avenue in Toronto, strumming an acoustic guitar and eagerly drawing up plans for the album that would become Berlin.

This past Sunday, Ezrin was about to hop a flight home from Los Angeles and spent the time mapping out a trip to New York next month. With considerable enthusiasm, he jotted down a scheduling note to himself: "Breakfast with Lou."

And then he boarded the plane, accessed the on-board wireless Internet, and saw that Reed — the massively influential Velvet Underground songwriter — had died at age 71.

"I almost fell out of my seat," Ezrin recalled in a telephone interview Monday. "I was a captive for five hours. All I wanted to do was run up and down the aisles screaming. By the time I got here, I was pretty drained.

"The world," he continues, "has lost one of its great artistic treasures."

Since Reed's death, a mourning music community has hailed the counter-cultural icon's limitless musical legacy, his intuitive gift for inhabiting the minds of outcasts and outsiders and his influential lack of regard for boundaries of gender or sexual orientation. Other chief features of most remembrances also focus on his irascible personality and brazen drug use.

But Reed, Hearn says, was misunderstood.

"Anyone who actually spent a little bit of time with him would see what a caring, sweet person he was," said Hearn.

"He had people coming at him from all directions all his life. So he found a way to deal with that and to keep doing what he loves; to protect his art and to protect who he was.

"Maybe he was grumpy some days. But he's human. And no one's perfect."

A global helltrek, just for the fun of it

Worst. Person. Ever.
Douglas Coupland's new novel takes readers on a boozy, sex-filled romp with a foul-mouthed cameraman — earnest literary critics, try to relax

MATT LAFORGE
matt.laforge@metronews.ca

Douglas Coupland is Canada's official Cool Guy. He earned the title not only because he creates cool things — books of fiction, reportage, and biography; cultural commentary; visual art; sculpture; furniture — but also because, unlike, say, Drake or those guys who started VICE magazine, he plies his various trades here, in Canada, without apologizing for or aggrandizing where he lives.

He simply, humbly, writes, sculpts, designs and collates from his base in Vancouver, telling us about our country and about the world as it's currently lived in. He works hard and produces material constantly. It's a fortunate thing that one of our culture's closest and most versatile observers is also one of its exemplars.

Coupland's newest novel, his 14th, is Worst. Person. Ever., a lewd, rude globe-trotting picaresque that follows the eponymous scoundrel, a singularly profane television cameraman named Raymond Gunt, on a calamitous sex-, booze- and four-letter-word-fuelled hell-trek from London to L.A. to Honolulu to Micronesia.

Raymond, described on the book jacket as "a living, walking, talking, hot steaming pile of pure id," chases chemical and sexual pleasure with abandon, leers unself-consciously at every woman in his field of vision and frequently fantasizes about literally enslaving his fellow man. If nothing else, it's the perfect gag gift for the clergyperson on your Christmas list. I talked to Coupland about it via email.

A theme in your fiction that goes all the way back to generation X and that is present in Worst. Person. Ever. is the human need to turn life into story. What is the difference, if any, between telling yourself stories about your life and telling yourself lies?
I think in this case it's the difference between how others see you and how you really are. Self-delusion is always funny.

Raymond Gunt tells the reader that he's charitable, understanding, worldly, open-minded and peace-loving. But his conduct, to put it mildly, suggests otherwise. Why do you think he — an impulse-driven guy who lives to party and get laid — claims so insistently that he's broad-minded and selfless?
Simple: He thinks it will somehow get him laid.

You tweeted a link to the Guardian's negative review of W.P.E., saying that the review's author "took the bait." What did you mean by that?
She took it at face value and actually thought the book was being put forth as literature — and then reviewed it as such. I mean, how fricking clueless can you be? It's a fun risqué read and seeks to be nothing more.

Much of your past work is breezy and funny but, at least as I read it, intends to rise to the level of serious art. What made you want to do something with lower esthetic stakes?
Fun! No, seriously: fun. Really. Fun.

Speaking of fun — W.P.E. has a lot of cursing and locker-roomish sex talk and a decent amount of violence. Are there any people who you think shouldn't read the book?
Not my call. But in the same way that you probably wouldn't leave martinis lying around your house, you probably might not leave W.P.E. around either.

More online

- Read the rest of the interview — including Coupland's takes on '80s music, Alice Munro, literary experimentalism and the likelihood that the world as we know it is ending — on metronews.ca.

Who's the worst person ever in real life?
That I've met in person? The person who Raymond is modelled on — an English cameraman at a shoot I did in Los Angeles in 1993.

The characters in W.P.E. spend huge amounts of time travelling in airplanes. There's a lot of flying in planes in your books, and you've written essays about the unpleasantness of air travel. Make three recommendations for the immediate improvement of air passengers' lives.
1. Free in-flight Wi-Fi.
2. Puppies bandied about freely.
3. Public flogging for people who bring idiotically large bags on as carry-on who then act all wounded when they're called on it.

David Arquette could use a PR handler right about now

David Arquette drunk-dialled the Howard Stern Show last night, and wow did he say some stuff. Highlights included backhanded compliments to Hitler.

"Listen, listen, listen — I've gotta say something on the N-word later — but Hitler played the game very well. He did. Listen, yeah, he played his game very well. He convinced a lot of people to play his f–king evil game. He played the game really well, but he was playing the wrong game."

Luckily he didn't manage to make it to whatever he had to say about the N-word, but he did happen to refer to Coco, his daughter with Courteney Cox, as his "first kid."

Wait, does that mean he had other kids? When? David didn't answer when Howard asked him, just "sort of wheezed and mumbled, giving no direct answer," as Howard-Stern.com puts it.

Arquette seemed dimly aware that things weren't going so hot. "Listen I'm going to be brutally honest with you and if that means tomorrow I have to get sober, I will get sober. I've been going on this whole Mayan thing lately. ... Are you with me? So, let's play the right game."

Yes, let's. The non-Hitler game. And in Arquette's case, maybe the "Just seltzer water for me, thanks," game.

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

The celebs who creep us out the most

Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

Sitting around the slightly rotten office jack-o'-lantern, on Halloween day while popping sour candies into our mouths, we asked our fellow Metro staffers which celebrity scared them the most. Read it now — if you dare. Bwa-hahahahahahahaha!

Raquel Welch
We're pretty sure Raquel Welch is one of the Tupperware moms from the tv series Eerie, Indiana — the kind that sleep in Tupperware coffins to stay fresh. She doesn't seem to be aging. See above photo for evidence.

Bruce Jenner
What he's done to his once-handsome face is more gasp-inducing than watching The Conjuring.

Steve Buscemi's mouth
Look, we love the guy, but you really wouldn't want to brush up against his grill in a dark alley, would you?

Harrison Ford
Why would a 71-year-old man have an earring? It's creepy.

Mel Gibson
What has he been up to since his anti-Semetic rant? We'd be spooked to venture into his basement at this point. Dude is probably working on something he wants no one to see.

Taylor Swift
We're not going to lie, it keeps us up at night worrying about what pretty young man-thing she'll set her blond succubus sights on next. Boys beware.

James Franco
Nobody should have that much energy and accomplish that many different things. It's terrifying. We're scared of what he'll decide to add to his resumé next — brain surgery? Rocket science? A human centipede made entirely of his comedy mafia bros? (Actually, we'd like to see that.)

Ashton Kutcher
What deal with the devil did that guy do? Highest paid actor on TV? Check. Mila Kunis as a girlfriend? Check. Signing over his soul to el diablo is the only explanation.

Diwali fave will light up your taste buds

Palak Paneer. Puréed spinach, yogurt and, for a local twist, Canadian paneer cheese make this dish a nutritional delight

Diwali, a five-day festival of lights originating in India and celebrated around the world, will begin Sunday.

To mark the victory of good over evil, revellers light lanterns around the home, set off fireworks outside and create design patterns called rangoli on the floor using coloured powders or sand.

Food also plays an important role with families coming together to enjoy a savoury meal and share sweets.

To join in the celebration, make a simple and quick version of Palak Paneer, glowing with the warm, spicy flavours of cumin, coriander and chili powder. It cooks up quickly and pairs with a side of warm naan bread or Basmati rice,

1. In a large, deep skillet, heat butter and oil over medium-high heat until butter melts. Add onions and garlic; sauté about 2 minutes or until tender. Stir in coriander, chili powder and cumin; sauté 30 seconds or until fragrant; stirring well to prevent spices from burning.

2. Stir in puréed spinach, yogurt and salt; reduce heat to medium-low and cook covered for 10 minutes or until it starts to bubble. Stir in paneer; cook covered 6 minutes or until paneer softens and is cooked through. Give it a final stir and serve warm. DAIRYGOODNESS.CA

Ingredients

- 2 tbsp (30 ml) butter
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) vegetable oil
- 1 medium onion, finely chopped
- 3 garlic cloves, minced
- 1 tsp (5 ml) ground coriander
- 1/2 tsp (2 ml) chili powder
- 1/2 tsp (2 ml) ground cumin
- 1 package (300 g) frozen spinach, thawed and puréed
- 1/2 cup (125 ml) plain yogurt whisked until smooth
- Salt to taste
- 12 oz (350 g) paneer, cut into bite-sized pieces (about 2 cups/500 ml)

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell

Do you pooh-pooh Australian table wines? Though offering some of the wine world's most popular brands, juice from Down Under became repetitive. There is good news. This time last year, I was on a three-week Aussie odyssey and had my glass filled with mind-blowing wines that are arriving in Canada.

South Australia's McLaren Vale has perplexed me. Best known for its fuller-bodied reds, I've found many of them lacking in that punch of flavour that makes a good wine great.

I'm betting its winemakers recognized that. On my tour, I found an invigorated region and was soon populating my tasting notebook with the words "exciting" and "innovative."

Chapel Hill 2011 Parson's Nose Shiraz ($19.99) is a perfect example of this new wave flowing from McLaren Vale. Named for an ironstone chapel built on the winery's property in 1865, it's an old school shiraz with a thick, plummy body and black, anise spice finish that makes it ideal for a juicy steak, or anything up-front and beefy.

Just opened: Hi-Lo

From the cool cats who brought us Leslieville faves Table 17 and Ascari Enoteca 26 comes Hi-Lo Bar, found in the old Pic-Nic at Home space at 753 Queen St. E. While there are but three taps for beer at the new neighbourhood joint, there's a carefully curated list of bottle brews alongside some tasty bar snacks.

Come and Get It goes permanent

Some might forget that Spadina's Come and Get It was only meant to be a temporary fixture before development began on the property. But they were reminded of this fact when it was announced that the sandwich, salad, grab-'n-go awesomeness was moving into the space left by Mavrik Wine Bar (676 Queen St. W.). The resto officially opens in its new digs Friday.

Just opened: Hapa Izakaya at the Ritz-Carlton

Vancouver-based Japanese chain Hapa Izakaya opened up its Toronto locale last year, and is set to again evolve itself. Just recently, Hapa Izakaya inked a deal with the Ritz-Carlton (181 Wellington St. W.) to take over the Ritz's oyster bar in the lobby lounge. What does that mean? We now have yet another reason to head to the Ritz-Carlton for after-work drinks.

National Women's Show

The ultimate girls' day out is back in Toronto at the Metro Toronto Convention Centre Friday to Sunday. The National Women's Show is where you can learn about services marketed to women (like the newly launched CoolSculpting), products you'd pass by otherwise (think organic goods), and check out celebrity guests.

Redbull Thre3style World DJ Championships

After a summer of qualifying, competitors from around the world are getting ready to see how they stack up against the world of Red Bull Thre-3Style here in Toronto at the World DJ Championships. The World Finals competition takes place from Monday to Saturday, Nov. 9, with winners from each night eventually heading to Saturday's finale. Events take place at multiple venues across the city.

Lewis '50-50' to star with Bills

Bills quarterback Thad Lewis missed his second straight practice on Thursday and remains questionable for Sunday's game against the Kansas City Chiefs.

Bills coach Doug Marrone reiterated Lewis has a "50-50" chance of playing after bruising his ribs in Sunday's loss to New Orleans. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Low-scoring Rangers ride Lundqvist to win

Henrik Lundqvist made 29 saves in his 47th NHL shutout, and the New York Rangers won their second straight and first at home with a 2-0 victory over the lowly Buffalo Sabres on Thursday night.

Lundqvist made a late third-period save with the top of his helmet, deflecting the puck into the crowd, and then robbed Marcus Foligno with 1:20 remaining. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

JVR playing like a rock star with Leafs

THE HOCKEY NEWS
Adam Proteau
toronto@metronews.ca

James van Riemsdyk had goals in Edmonton and Calgary this week as the Leafs head west for Saturday night's clash with the Canucks in Vancouver. JASON FRANSON/THE CANADIAN PRESS

The last trade Brian Burke signed off on as Maple Leafs GM is turning out to be the best one he ever made in Toronto because the guy he acquired in that deal is looking more and more like a franchise player.

Yes, left winger James van Riemsdyk has surged in his development while the player Burke dealt away — blue-liner Luke Schenn — is looking like a mid-tier defenceman. At best.

Some of that isn't Schenn's fault; he's playing on a lousy Philadelphia Flyers team that sure could use van Riemsdyk's offensive talents right now. But van Riemsdyk gets virtually all the credit for making the transaction look so lopsided.

In 12 games this season, the fifth-year NHLer has seven goals and 13 points and has been a perfect fit on the first line opposite Phil Kessel. If he stays close to that scoring pace, the 24-year-old will demolish his current career highs in goals (21) and points (40) by the Olympic break. It's all about staying healthy for van Riemsdyk. So long as he can continue to crash the net while using those long arms and slick hands, he'll continue to show why Philly picked him second overall in 2007.

Burke is now gone to Calgary, where he serves as the Flames' director of hockey operations. But he and the management team he'd assembled in June of 2012 deserve kudos for doing what teams used to do to the Leafs in the Harold Ballard years: Pluck a talented youngster away from a team that foolishly grew impatient with him.

In fairness, Flyers GM Paul Holmgren was trying to address his franchise's dire need on defence. But, giving up on van Riemsdyk after he'd missed half of his third professional season because of injury now smacks of myopia.

And it wasn't as if Schenn had been playing well before the trade. In fact, he'd fallen to the point where he was seventh among Toronto defencemen in time on ice and his point totals had plateaued. Still Holmgren traded van Riemsdyk straight-up for him.

Yes, the Joffrey Lupul/Jake Gardiner-for-Francois Beauchemin deal was another beauty by Burke. But as it stands today, securing the services of the blossoming van Riemsdyk — and did I mention that he's signed through the summer of 2018 at a reasonable $4.25 million a season? — is clearly his masterpiece.

Ashton being assessed

Maple Leafs forward Carter Ashton will have a hearing with the NHL's department of player safety on Friday for a hit on Calgary Flames defenceman Derek Smith.

- Ashton was called for boarding at 16:56 of the second period Wednesday night as well as a major for fighting Shane O'Brien, who took offence at Ashton's hit from behind.

Biggs shrinking under bright Toronto lights

Once pegged as a top-six NHL forward, Tyler Biggs is now manning third-line duties with the Toronto Marlies. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE FILE

Tyler Biggs has gone from a first-round draft pick of the Maple Leafs to a third-line winger with the Toronto Marlies.

And concerns are quietly emanating from Leafs camp about the upside of the 20-year-old. They're no longer counting on him to become a top-six forward in the NHL, where he was projected when the Leafs traded up to take him 22nd overall in 2011.

"That's a fair statement," said Marlies coach Steve Spott. "He's going to have to come to grips with that. Talking to our management staff, that's where they see him, as a player that can create offence, but ultimately, he's got to be a third-line right winger in the National Hockey League.

Falling down the depth chart

"I'm OK with any role they give me. I'm just trying to play the game."

Toronto Marlies forward Tyler Biggs

"When you look at players like David Clarkson, or Chris Stewart, those players, he has to get more of that in his game. More energy, more bump. He's getting more comfortable with that."

Last year, Biggs had 26 goals and 27 assists in 60 games with the Oshawa Generals, his first and only season in the OHL after jumping ship from the NCAA. He has one goal in eight games with the Marlies

"This is my first year pro, so everything is a new experience right now," said Biggs. "It's coming along good."

World Series win caps off tragic year in Beantown

Boston Strong. Marathon runner finds bittersweet ending in Red Sox victory

For fans, players and political leaders who celebrated the Red Sox's World Series title with cries of "Boston Strong," the championship provided a jubilant finish to a season that was shadowed nearly from the start by the April bombings at the Boston Marathon.

The morning after he cheered the victory inside Fenway Park, Ed Carlson returned Thursday to the marathon finish line he had crossed months earlier, 20 minutes before the bombs went off, and then had scrambled to find his children in the ensuing chaos.

"It was quite a year," said Carlson, 51, of Princeton, Mass. "To be at the marathon and then to be there for the World Series — I still tear up thinking about it."

The success of the Red Sox, who finished last in their division only a year ago, became a welcome surprise and eventually a symbol of resilience for a city recovering from the twin bombings that killed three people and wounded more than 260. People periodically stopped around the finish line on Thursday morning to offer a solemn tribute.

Carlson, who was taking in the scene with his 17-year-old daughter, wore a new Red Sox World Series Champions baseball hat along with the same blue and yellow marathon jacket he wore to every Sox game he attended over the season. At Wednesday night's game, he had his marathon medal in his pocket. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Free to play. Varlamov able to travel with team while charges pending

Colorado Avalanche goalie Semyon Varlamov DENVER POLICE DEPARTMENT

Colorado Avalanche goalie Semyon Varlamov will be able to travel with the team while prosecutors consider whether he should be charged with assaulting his girlfriend.

On Thursday, a judge said Varlamov could be released if he posted $5,000 US bond and be allowed to travel with the team but he was ordered to stay away from his girlfriend, among other restrictions.

The girlfriend told investigators that Varlamov kicked her in the chest, knocking her down, and stomped on her chest as she lay on the ground in her apartment on Monday, according to an arrest affidavit. The girlfriend, whose name was redacted, also accused Varlamov of dragging her by her hair and telling her that he would have beaten her more if they had been in Russia.

Varlamov appeared in court briefly Thursday. He spent the night in jail after turning himself in on Wednesday. He stood next to his lawyer to face Denver County Judge Claudia Jordan, who also told him, through a Russian interpreter, that he couldn't drink or possess firearms. He also had to sign a waiver that he would be immediately sent back to Colorado if he fled.

The 25-year-old turned himself in to police Wednesday evening, after practising with the team that day. He was arrested on suspicion of second-degree kidnapping and third-degree assault.

Varlamov's agent, Paul Theofanous, said he "is completely innocent of all of these charges."

Varlamov's lawyer, Jack Rotole, declined to comment on the case, saying he would defend his client in court. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NFL. Shanahan calls Haynesworth 'lazy'

Mike Shanahan levelled a scathing critique at Albert Haynesworth on Thursday, saying the former Redskins defensive lineman was "lazy" and had a "lack of passion" and "lack of character."

The Washington Redskins coach was responding to comments made this week by Haynesworth, who told Tennessee Sports Radio that Shanahan is "conniving," self-centred and will run quarterback Robert Griffin III "into the ground."

Asked for his reaction, Shanahan began his answer and then stopped himself and started over — because he wanted to "say it the right way."

Then he hammered home a zinger.

"When you don't get along with somebody as a head coach or an assistant coach, it usually falls into one of those areas — lazy, lack of passion, and a lot of times lack of character," Shanahan said. "And he fits all three."

Haynesworth signed a $100-million free-agent contract with the Redskins in 2009, but he and Shanahan clashed frequently after the coach arrived in Washington a year later. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Blue Jays

New hitting coach aims to use the whole field

Throughout last season Blue Jays manager John Gibbons lauded hitters who "used the whole field," could drive the ball gap-to-gap and were not wholly dependent on a pull-happy power stroke.

It's no surprise then that the hitting coach he and GM Alex Anthopoulos have hired to replace Chad Mottola is one who shares that philosophy.

The Jays announced Thursday that Gibbons' former colleague with the Kansas City Royals, Kevin Seitzer, has been named the team's new hitting coach.

Gibbons worked alongside Seitzer with the Royals for three seasons, from 2009 to 2011, when Gibbons was the team's bench coach.

Seitzer said he developed his philosophy from his personal experience and also "special conversations with some very good hitters," singling out George Brett, Paul Molitor, Dave Winfield and about a dozen of the game's best hitters from the '80s and '90s. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Maybin to make CFL debut against Als

Back on the field. Maybin hasn't played since November 2012 after being released by the New York Jets

The Toronto Argonauts might be finishing their CFL regular season, but Aaron Maybin is just starting his.

The former NFL first-round pick will make his CFL debut at defensive end Friday night when the Argos host the Montreal Alouettes. Maybin, 25, signed with Toronto on Sunday and will don pads in his first regular-season contest since being released in November 2012 by the New York Jets.

"It's pretty exciting, it's been a long time since I've had the chance to suit up," Maybin said Thursday after Toronto took its team picture at Rogers Centre. "I stopped being nervous playing this game years ago but it's an opportunity to get out on the field and play the game you've been playing your whole life.

"If you can't get excited about that, you're in the wrong place."

The Buffalo Bills selected Maybin 11th overall in the '09 NFL draft out of Penn State but released him after two disappointing seasons. Maybin joined the Jets early in 2011 and had a team-high six sacks but was let go nine games into the '12 campaign.

Maybin signed with Cincinnati but was released in August. Over four NFL seasons, the six-foot-four, 237-pound Maybin had six sacks and 36 tackles. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Goodbye, 'Crazy Legs'

Former Argos running back dies at age 87

Former Toronto Argonauts running back Ulysses (Crazy Legs) Curtis, a two-time Grey Cup champion and the team's first black player, has died. He was 87.

Curtis died Oct. 6 in Toronto, the Argonauts said Thursday in a statement. There was no word on the cause of death.

Curtis played for the CFL team from 1950 to '54. He dressed in 57 regular-season games and made nine playoff game appearances, winning titles in '50 and '52.

"On the field Ulysses was one of the best natural runners I have ever seen," said former teammate Nick Volpe, now the team's football operations consultant. "His nickname Crazy Legs came to be because when he ran his knees would go so high that he would sometimes knock the ball out of his own hands. Curtis retired after the 1954 season and went on to work as a teacher in the north Toronto school system for 30 years. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Raonic falls short at ATP World Tour Finals

Milos Raonic lost his chance for a spot in the ATP World Tour Finals, as the Canadian went down to a 7-6 (13), 6-4 loss against Tomas Berdych on Thursday in the third round of the Paris Masters.

The defeat in just under two hours also settled the final lineup for the eight-man season wrap-up, which starts Monday in London. Stanislas Wawrinka and Richard Gasquet gained the last two places as a result of Raonic's loss.

The 22-year-old from Thornhill, Ont., lost against Berdych for the first time. He had beaten the Czech in both of their previous matches, including a September final in Bangkok.

No Canadian has ever reached the year-end event in singles, though Toronto's Daniel Nestor has made multiple appearances in doubles.

"I didn't have any pressure thinking about London," said Raonic, who fired 18 aces and only lost his serve once. "I actually didn't think about it until I stepped off the court, It was not a part of my mental process.

"I see how close I came," said Raonic, who will still gets a handsome payday as an alternate in London. "I know I can improve a lot more." THE CANADIAN PRESS

A-Rod saga. Rodriguez files lawsuit against MLB over 'witch hunt'

With the World Series over, Alex Rodriguez resumed his criticism of Major League Baseball and Commissioner Bud Selig for its investigation that led to a 211-game suspension that the New York Yankees third baseman is trying to overturn.

In addition to a grievance filed by the players' union, Rodriguez filed a lawsuit against Selig and MLB that accused them of engaging in a "witch hunt."

"I am deeply troubled by my team's investigative findings with respect to MLB's conduct," Rodriguez said in a statement Thursday.

MLB suspended Rodriguez on Aug. 5 for violations of its drug agreement and labour contract, but he was allowed to keep playing pending a determination of the grievance. Arbitrator Fredric Horowitz has heard eight days of hearings, and the next session is Nov. 18. Rodriguez and MLB have publicly assailed each other for months. MLB accused Rodriguez of "possession of numerous forms of prohibited performance-enhancing substances, including testosterone and human growth hormone, over the course of multiple years." Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
You may be envious of a rival's success but it's a waste of time. If you compare yourself to others, you will always find someone who has done better than you. Compare yourself to who you were yesterday.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
A loved one may be giving you a hard time and you may have every right to hit back at them but is that such a good idea? According to the planets, you should let it go and let them get past this negative phase.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
Don't let yourself get upset about little things. The Sun's link to retrograde Mercury in the work and wellbeing area of your chart today warns you to watch your temper.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
There are so many good things going on in your world that you may worry you don't really deserve it all — but you do. The planets are simply rewarding you for past efforts you made on other people's behalf.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
Make the most of what you have and don't worry that others may have more than you. Life is not a game where the one with the most wins. Life is a process to be enjoyed.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
It would be unwise to reach a decision today without seeking advice from people you trust. With Mercury, your ruler, moving retrograde you may not be seeing things straight.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
Try not to get annoyed with the varied fools you have to deal with today. They can't help it if, compared to you, they don't have a clue what's going on. If anything, feel sorry for them.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
Mercury in your sign makes your mind sharper than usual but because it links to slow-moving Pluto today you may find it hard to reach any lasting conclusions. That's good, as most likely they'll be wrong.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
If there is something you are hiding and you will no doubt be dismayed when it becomes public knowledge. Don't be embarrassed though, it's OK.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
You are more than impatient with people who move slowly. However, the more you try to hurry them along, the more they drag their feet. What can you do about it? Nothing. Perhaps you should move more slowly yourself.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
Resist the urge to make decisions about your social or professional situation. With mind planet Mercury in the career area of your chart linked to unpredictable Uranus they will most likely be wrong.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
It would appear that a friend is in an argumentative mood and would like nothing better than to engage you in the kind of debate you cannot win. Give it a miss! SALLY BROMPTON
